please understand that while i'm confident in my abilities to a certain level, i most certainly understand that i don't have real-world experience as a professional 3d artist and will fully understand any decision you make based off of this information. i've wanted to participate in the skywind project for a time, but have held back mostly out of fear of inadequacy. however, i've finally put my anxiety aside and rationalized that this is a fan project, and i'm a fan with some measure of skills who would love to participate. thanks so much! - emma
